- Susan Gammon

Description

Scouts must deal with a first aid scenario. Scouts should be briefed before starting the scene. They should treat it exactly like a normal first aid scene. The injuries for each staff member is in the handout. Scenario: The scouters were trying to make a bridge over the river when their lashings came lose and the bridge fell apart. The scouts heard them and came to help. Scouts shouldn't be marked down for over first aiding unless it negatively affects the patients. Scouts must make a sling, warm the patients, preform SAMPLE and preform CPR. They should then be debriefed after the scene and told how to improve.
